

Kai Böckmann

Production Technology Manager at Parker Hannifin
www.parker.com

We use this machine for manufacturing large and small batches of items that require high precision.

Sala immediately impressed us for its structured and modern organisation. We also appreciated their availability to further develop the machine with us. The company's cleanliness and order, as well as its structure, must be emphasised once again as this allowed us to trust Sala for such an important project. Their loyalty is another strong suit, as we usually deal with sensitive data.

They always take different solutions into consideration. Sala has a precise idea of what your machines can do. The product's know-how must come from the client. This results in smooth cooperation and a targeted plan.

We immediately appreciated the machine's design. The work area is accessible for carrying out tooling operations quickly and easily and the machine's concept allows us to manufacture a wide range of items. What impressed us the most is the speed and power of the spindles' drive unit and their precision.

Their cooperation during and after the project has been perfect. Sala has always been available for applying modifications and providing new ideas throughout the project and we have always found the solution together very quickly. This close relationship with the client is not obvious for us and it makes us face the future with optimism.

We have been collaborating with Sala since 2014.

Sala provides excellent service and is always by our side if we need to make any changes. The machine can meet long-term and demanding requirements.

But we also enjoy other benefits, such as:

1. The possibility for converting the machine for new products quickly and efficiently.
2. The machine's design allows for a wide range of variants and sometimes is even faster than other traditional machines.
3. Possibility for manufacturing completely different items in batches of different sizes.

Sala is a reliable future-oriented company, which is able to meet any requirement. This strategy allows Sala to be a stable and forward-looking company, which has well understood how to meet the client's requirements. Sala goes doesn't just sell machines. They also make sure that their client is happy with their purchase and can rely on them.

